Over 28 Pounds Gain in 10 Weeks. sperience of a Prominent Oitizen. THE CALIFORNIA SOCIETY FOR THE SUPPRESSION OF VICE, SAN FRANCISCO, July 7th, 1886.

I took a severe cold upon my chest and lungs and did not give it proper attention; it developed into bronchitis, and in the fall of the same year I was threatened with consumption. Physicians ordered mate a more congenial dered me to a more congenial elimate, and I came to San Francisco. Soon after my arrival I ec mmenced taking Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Off with Hypophosphites regularly three times a day. In ten weeks my avoirdupois went from 135 to 180 pounds and over; the cough mean-

LIFE IN WASHINGTON.

Experience of a Man Who Came to Secure a Government Position.

He sat on a Lafayette square bench, says He sat on a Lafayette square bench, says the Washington Critic, a wooden tooth-pick held meditatively between his teeth, the picture of a club-man who had dined well. Shuffling down one of the graveled paths was a man—a tramp. He passed the club-man, eyeing him closely, and, halting in the gloom of a near-by tree, looked back to where the club-man sat, and then retraced his steers.

where the club-man sat, and then retraced his steps.

"Year pardon, sir," the tramp said, in a husky voice, "will you give me a little advice."

"Well, what is it?" the club-man saked.

Well, what is it?" the club-man asked,

vice."

"Well, what is it?" the club-man asked, a shade of annoyance showing in his goodnatured features, for, like most heavy diners, he disliked any thing that savored of business after dinner. Besides, he thought the man but a beggar, and disliked his not approaching the matter directly.

"I'll take but a minute of your time, sir, if you'll listen to me. I came to Washington two months ago to get a government position. As you see, I failed. For the last eight days up to last night I have been drunk. I have been a drinker all my life, but I never drank so much nor so steadily before. I woke up this morning with the sun shining in my face through the trees of a park. My clothes were pawned and replaced with these rags, my watch, money, every thing gone for drink.

"Did you ever have mania-a-potu! No; I can see that you haven't. Well, I have. Two hours ago I felt it coming on me. You can see," holding up a tremulous hand, "how unstrung my nerves are. I can almost see the devils now as they tighten their fingers on my throat. And the thirst—thirst that nothing but aicohol will quench. You can not imagine what it is to feel yourself petrified, powerless, dead to every thing but pain, while lizards, ants, toads, worms, snakes, every thing slimy, are twisting, wriggling, squirming over you, gumming your eyes hed, powerless, dead to every thing but pain, white lizards, ants, toads, worms, snakes, every thing slimy, are twisting, wriggling, squirming over you, gumming your eyes together, filling your ears with horrible sounds, while every joint in your body is racked and twisted until it seems ready to come apart. Your brain on fire, your throat parched and swollen, and the hot, fetid breath of devils in your face as they taunt you with great flagons of liquor, held just out of your reach. God, sir! This and a thousand times this I have felt, and feel coming over me again.

"I asked you for advice. Well, I've got a quarter in my pocket. I can get a bed for a quarter, or I can get a pint of whisky that will keep me out of the reach of these devils to-night, until I can get to sleep. But where would I sleep! If I get a bed I can't sleep unless I have something to drink. You see why I asked your advice."

When the tramp began his story the clubman wore a look of wearied indifference. But the tramp talked quickly and excitedly, with jerky, expressive gestures, his hollow with jerky, expressive gestures, his hollow eyes fixed on the club-man's every look and every motion, lending strength to what he said, until the club-man seemed fascinated. As the tramp finished he got up from the bench and shook himself like a man ridding his mind of an unpleasant day dream.

"Ugh, man, you ought to be an actor. Here's fifty cents. No, here's a dollar, and, for God's sake don't talk to me any more about your delirium tremens. Ugh!"

And the tramp shuffled off through the deepening gloom, and, as he passed into the glare of the electric lights in front of the Treasury, the dollar and the quarter jingled merrily in his pocket.

He was an ex-actor.

He was an ex-actor. AN OSTRICH RACE.

Huge Birds That Seem to Cover Fourteen

Feet with Every Stride. A writer in the Providence Journal gives some interesting facts in regard to an ossome interesting facts in regard to an os-trich farm near Los Angeles, Cal., owned by Dr. J. C. Sketchley. He has sixty acres devoted to ostriches, having imported thirty pairs of these birds directly from Africa, landing them at Galveston, Tex. He also landing them at Galveston, Tex. He also brought with them four Madrasese men and women; these people being thoroughly familiar with the habits of the ostrich. Their food is corn and alfalfa, the latter a kind of California grass, of which at least half a dozen crops are frequently cut off the same ground in one season. These ostriches weigh from 300 to 400 pounds each. The male bird is black and the female gray, and they are valuable chiefly for their feathers, the finest of which sell for $4 apiece, according to this account, while good, common feathers bring $200 a pound. The price of a full-grown pair of birds is from $700 to $800, and young birds, six months old, cost from $150 to $200. They are a very long-lived creature, sometimes reaching long-lived creature, sometimes reaching the age of eighty years. The article closes with the following account of an ostrich with the following account of an ostrich race:

At a command from the doctor one of the Madrasese keepers opened the door of one of the pens, and in response to the doctor's call two superb ostriches came running to him. After caressing the gentle creatures for a few moments, he showed them a handful of figs, of which they are extremely fond. Two of his men then restrained the birds by placing nooses about their legs until he and myself had walked to the other end of the course. Then, at a signal from the doctor, the birds were released, and the race began. It seemed to me these birds covered fourteen feet at every stride. Like the wind they came, their great necks stretched forward and upward to their utmost length, their wings, like arms, working with a motion similar to that made by their legs, and filling the air with a mighty sound like the rushing of a whirlwind. Nearer and nearer they came, their speed increasing at every moment, till I was almost terrified lest they should run us down, feeling certain that we could not withstand the shock. They kept well abreast for nearly half the distance, and then one began to forge ahead. He steadily increased his lead till within a few feet of us, when he turned his bealt, and, seeing that his competitor was considerably in the rear, he slackened his pace, and, jogging up to the doctor, received his reward in figs and caresses.

Comfort for Young Authors.

A young lady in Atlanta had no difficulty in getting into the Century Magazine, though she was absolutely unknown to its editors. Her manscript was not only accepted, but she received a most cordial invitation to become a regular contributor. Was this accidental? Not at all. The young lady had served an apprenticeship at writing, and her contribution happened to be precisely what the editor wanted. But there is another thing that ought to be borne in mind—namely, that the rejection of an article by a magazine editor is no evidence that it lacks merit. It is merely an evidence that the editor regards it as unavailable for his particular pablication. What would suit the Century wou'd not be available in the Atlantic, and what would be rejected by one magazine might be gladly accepted by another. But if an article is rejected by all the writer may fairly conclude that its mer's are not such as to commend it to the public.

THE CENTURY

WHY Has it such an enormous circula-two and three millions of people read each number.

MAGAZINE IN 1889.

BECAUSE THE CENTURY is above every development of wood-engraving in America, and it has fostered American authors. It is alive to thes issues of to-day. What it prints sets people to thinking and talking.

BECAUSE Whatever other periodicals the great reading world has found out that "no household can keep abreast of the times without The Centrury." "Its success is explained by its contents."

BECAUSE The greatest writers of the read by the greatest number, and therefore to such a magazine as THE CENTURY the best naturally comes. It was for THE CENTURY that General Grant first wrote his reminiscenses of important battles.

BECAUSE It is publishing the life of private secretaries. Of this it has been said. The young man who is not reading it robs himself of that which he will hunger for. The coming year presents the most important part of this great history, which may begin at any time.

BECAUSE It is printing those remarkaable articles on "Biberia and the Exile System," by George Kenman, which are attracting universal attention and are being reprinted in hundreds of foreign newspapers, but are not allowed to enter Russia.
The "Chicago Tribune" says that "no other magazine articles printed in the English language just now touch upon a subject which so vitally interests all thoughtful people in Europe and America and Asia." They are "as judicial as the opinion of a Supreme Court tribunal—as thrilling as the most sensational drama."

BECAUSE During 1889 THE CRITTIES is to have a series of engrings of the greatest pictures of the old Italian masters, made by Timothy Cole, the lead wood-engraver in the world, who has apour years in Italy on this work; a series "Strange True Stories of Louisiana," by Ow. THE recent fight against the lettery amendment has opened the eyes of many as to the patronage of the Louisiana lottery from this State. The principal argument made by the pro-lottery men was to keep our money at home, and in these arguments have shown what was claimed to be facts and figures, which proved that vast sums go annually from Nevada to enrich the proprietors of the Louisiana banking game. The agitation has eaused many to investigate legislation on the lottery question in this State, and the result has been the finding of laws which make it a penalt, for any one to act as agent for any lottery scheme; that to sell Time was called at 6:58. lottery tickets is a crime. For several years past the traffic in lottery tickets here has been more or less open. The Beauliffe-Meyers Fight. NORTH JUDSON, Ind., Feb. 13.-The Chicago Times contains the following: A wrangle over McAuliffe's having plastered his hands under his gloves was finally settled, and he was allowed to put them on. At 6:40 two marshals jumped on the platform and informed those present that the fight could not go on. After a long wrangle with the referee and sheriff it was agreed to allow the boxing match.

First round-McAuliffe led, forced Billy to the ropes and landed his left on his nose and his right on his ribs. In favor of McAuliffe.

Second round-An exchange, in which Mevers landed on his opponents neck, and getting in return a stinger on the nose. McAuliffe slipped at the ropes, saving himself from a terrible right hand swing. A foul was claimed but not allowed. The round ended with cautious sparring.

Third round - Cautious sparring; McAuliffe led lightly and then landed right hander. McAuliffe rushed in--an even exchange, Billy getting in a good which staggered him.

Fourth round-Both men were very cautious, and sparred for an opening. Not a blow was struck.

Eighteenth — Meyers' right eye showed signs of closing, otherwise both men were in good condition.

Cautious sparring for wind followed for several rounds, neither man being anxious to force matters. The blows were proceeding with little anxious to force matters. The blows were mostly at short range, with little damage, and were followed by clinching. AlcAuliffe opened the round by a rush, landing lightly on Meyers' forehead, followed by a clinch. Meyers landed heavily on Mac's ribs with his right. Careful sparring to the end of the round. Both men came up fresh and strong; Meyers' eye was blacking, but otherwise neither showed signs of punishment. This round was a repetition of past tactics, sparring for an tition of past tactics, sparring for an opening. Mac opened with a rush; landing heavily on Meyers' nose; some infighting followed, which resulted in intighting followed, which resulted in a clinch. Mae led with his left arm again and landed on Moyers's face and got away without a return. Meyers barely missed a vicious blow and left lunge, which would have settled the affair.

After about two minutes time was called for two minutes by Referee McDonald, to show the Sheriff that this is a boxing match, not a fight. The Sheriff left match, not a fight. The Sheriff left the hall, after promising that if he hears that either of the men was hurt he will arrest everyone in the room.

The twenty-eighth round had just opened, when one of the Town Mar-shals came in and shals came in and said he would not have it any longer, as he had under-stood that it was not a boxing match, but a fight. At this time (9 o'clock) the fight had been delayed twenty minutes, and arrangements have just been made to continue it. Twenty-ninth round — Time was called at 9:15. Both men were fresh after a rest of twenty-five minutes. Mac rushed, and, falling short, was heavily countered.

heavily countered.

Thirtieth round—Meyers landed a right-hand swing on Mac's lip, and was allowed first blood. Then followed another season of cautious work for several rounds without any execution, some of them without a blow being struck

Finally the crowd began to grow impatient at the dilatory tactics, and called on the fighters to do something, but neither of them were ready for genuine business, and the sparring continued, with an occasional tap and counter, in which the honors were 11:15 — The sixty-first round has been fought, and the battle at this hour has lasted four hours and ten minutes. Neither show much punishment, and the betting is about even.

The fight was declared a draw at the end of the sixty-fourth round.

The Electoral Count.

Washington, Feb. 13-The Chamber of the House presented a lively scene this morning, though nothing of a sensational character was expected. The galleries were filled an hour before noon by a crowd of spectators eager to witness the ceremonies attending the counting of the electoral vote. The ladies were in a large majority, and many ladies were upon the floor pleading for passes to the already overflowing galleries. Beside the Speaker's was placed one for Senator Ingalls, who, as the presiding officer of the Senate, was to preside over the joint assembly. At noon the Speaker's gavel hushed the hum of the conversation and the chaplain made a short prayer.

After the routine business, at one o'clock legislative proceedings were suspended and the Senators filed into the chamber. Captain Bassett carried a box containing the returns from the Electoral College. The representa-tives remained standing until the Senheavily with his left, and receiving a ators had taken their seats. Then Senator Ingalls, who was seated on the right hand of the Speaker, called right hand blow in McAuliffe's face, officer then broke the seal of the cer tificate from Alabama and handed it to Senator Manderson, one of the tellers, who read the document. It was in due form, and showed that the Fifth round—Meyers landed on Mc-ten electoral votes of Alabama had Auliffe's ribs with his right and struck been east for Cleveland and Thurman. again with his left.

Sixth round—Again cautious—but the proceedings of the meeting of the electors in Montgomery, and contained the ballots cast by each elector for President and Vice-President It Seventh round—McAuliffe landed lightly on Meyers' mouth without a to the election of the electors therein named. The reading consumed fifteen minutes.

Thereafter the reading of the results was dispensed with, and the tellers, after inspection, merrily announced the result in each State. Oregon having been reached, the presiding officer said: "The President of the Senate has received two certificates and two other papers purporting to be certifi-cates from the State of Oregon, and Ninth round-Meyers led with his as directed by law, he opens them all cautious sparring. McAuliffe got in a good right and left in Meyers' face of the electors, certified by without a return.

Senator Manderson said the tellers have examined the different certificates presented to them, and find but one in duplicate certified by the Governor of the State of Oregon, over the great seal of that Sta'e. It seems to be in due form, and by it it appears that Benjamin Harrison of Indiana re-ceived three votes for Vice-President. There was no objection to the vote being so counted. The reading the of returns was completed and footed with-out further incident. The presiding officer upon reviewing the results, said the vote for President of the United rushing the second time Mac slipped and fell, Meyers on top. Mac then commenced forcing matters.

Fifteenth—A repetition of the fourteenth. 401, of which a majority is 201. Ben-jamim Harrison of the State of In-diana has received for President of the United States 233 votes, and Grover Cleveland of New York has received 168 votes. In like manner and with the same majority, the election of Levi P. Morton of New York to be Vice-President, was declared, and both were directed to be entered on the journals of the Senate and House. The oint session was then dissolved.

The c unt of the electoral vote was completed, and Harrison and Morton were declared elected President and Vice-President.

Congressional Proceedings. Washington, Feb. 13.-The House Committee on Agriculture to-day decided to report adversely, the bill introduced by Thompson of California for the development and encouragement of silk culture in the Unite!

SENATE. Hale presented a conference report on the Diplomatic and Consular Appropriation bill, which was agreed to after a statement by Hale, in reply to a question by Sherman, as to whether the appropriation of a half a million dollars for the protection of American interests in Samoa was retained, and that the appropriation of $100,000 for a coaling station at Pago Pago had been transferred to the Naval Appropriation bill, which passed the Senate yesterday.

The Senate bill for ascertaining the amount of money expended and obligations assumed by California, growing out of Indian hostilities, was on motion of Stewart taken from the calendar and passed. The Senate then proceeded to the House to assist in the counting of the electoral votes. Hale presented a conference report

THE WATER BILL.

A Carefully, Drawn Document Sub

The committee consisting of G. W Mapes, James Mayberry, C. Derby, Geo. Alt, Alvaro Evans and Archie Farrington, appointed at a recent ditch-owners' meeting to draft a bill to be introduced in the Nevada Legislature, have completed their labors. The bill has been introduced and printed. It is entitled, "An Act to regulate the use of water for irrigation and for other purposes; for settling the priority of rights thereto, and to punish the unlawful interference with such rights; to provide for the condemnation of lands for reservoir; for recording claims to water rights, and the appointment and duties of Weter Condensations. pointment and duties of Water Com-missioners." It is a good bill, and it will repay the farmers, ditch-owners and taxpayers generally to read it carefully. A large number of copies have been printed and will be sent out. The bill provides for the quieting of title to water at the least possible

Four Chinese were scalded to death lowstone Park, last week. They had built a wash-house over a hot spring, but by some means, whether accidental or through the mischievous pro-pensities of miners, the Chinese soap ox was upset in the spring, and a lively geyser followed. The bodies of the Chinamen were found some dis-tance from the scene. The geyser asted three-quarters of an hour.

Does Not Squeal.

Dolph Shane, one of the original promoters of the lottery scheme, who was out east on election day, was in Reno this morning. While he, like a genuine sport, took the defeat of the lottery good naturedly, he could not refrain from severely criticising the action of some of his associates, who wanted to make a "cheap" fight. Dolph has been in this country a long time and has advanced ideas on the way to carry on elections.

Oregon is one of the most productive States in the Union. Its vast mineral regions contain gold, silver, copper, iron and coal. Its immense tracts of grazing lands support thousands of cattle and sheep, and its extensive agricultural regions produce all the creals in abundance, the yield per acre being, in some instances, the largest in the world. Among the useful and valuable products of the Webfoot State may be mentioned Oregon Kidney Tea, which has proved a boon to thousands afficted with pain in the back and kidney difficulties. It is purely of vegetable composition and never fails. Sold by William Pinniger.

KANSAS VIGILANTES.

nces of the Early Days of the Prairie State.

How Horse-Thieves Were Hunted by the Sturdy Western Pioneers—Expedition
That Usually Ended with a Tragedy
—Railroads and Civilization.

The depredations of horse-thieves in Southern Kansas was for a time something appalling, and kept the whole country alarmed, writes W. B. Holland in the Detroit Free Press. For the past thirty years the Indian Territory has been the rendezvous of many of the worst citizens in the West. Fugnitives from Kansas and Teias, as well as from the Eastern States, flocked in there, where they were sure to find proin there, where they were sure to find pro-tection and congenial companions. A man's social standing in this lawless community depended on his readiness with a "gun," and the number and atrocity of the crimes he had committed. The word "gun" refers to a revolver, but these were of such an enormous size that the term "gun" seemed to suit better.

A residence of a few days with these peo-A residence of a few days with these peo-ple would make an agnostic argue the neces-sity of a hell and he could easily show the utility of such a place. While the inhab-itants were banded together to resist the law, they had no confidence in each other and no fear of any power, human or divine. They would have been unable to have told They would have been unable to have told Sunday by the aid of an almanac and the entire absence of razors caused their faces to have a heavier hirsute adornment than a bearded woman at a show.

It was an easy matter for one or more of these outlaws to enter Kansas, steal a horse and be back in the Territory before the loss would be discovered. With such facilities for horse stealing at hand, it is no small wonder that the farmers in Southern Kan-sas living close to the State line were able to keep any horses at all.

The result of so much crime resulted in the formation of "vigilance committees," the object of which was to cause a suspension of horse-stealing by suspending the thieves. The members of these committees were called "Vigilantes," and the beauty of their method was found in the fact that they never had to punish a man for the second offense.

While a great deal of fault may be found with mob law in general, there is no doubt but the vigilantes in Kansas had an elevating effect on the horse-thieves.

When a horse was stolen, the neighbor-hood was notified and men started out in squads of from three to six. They all went squads of from three to six. They all went into the Territory, each squad selecting its own route. A noticeable part of the outfit of each squad would be a new halter rope of a size sufficient to hold three or four horses, and perhaps thirty feet long. Just why such a rope was necessary to hold a pony that at other times was perfectly gentle did not appear, but the rope was taken along

In two or three days the squads of vigilantes would begin to return. Finally one squad came in leading the horse that had been stolen. It might also be noticed that while all the other men had brought back the massive halter-rope, the squad that brought the horse brought no rope. "We found the horse, but the thief got away," the successful men said, apologetic ally.

"Did you see the thief?" some one would

"Yes, we saw him and the last we noticed of him he was going through the brush," would be the answer, sometimes varied so as to have the man "drown while crossing a river."

The truth was apparently told, but to the farmer who had been a member of a similar squad the careless words told of a tragedy and he knew that somewhere in the wild country just south was a corpse hanging to a tree, a note pinned to the bosom and fluttering in the wind. He knew that a soul had been hurried to its Maker; that one desperate man had struggled with others as desperate and determined as himself and had succumbed to the odds against him. He knew also that it was a horse-thief that had been hung and that his own animals were so much safer. Conscience was stilled by the thought that it was his duty; a horrible task, but none the less a bounden duty, due to himself, to his neighbounden duty, due to his bors and to his family.

When starting on such a trip, each man hoped that it would not be his squad that should overtake the solitary man riding the stolen horse. He closed his eyes to shut out the remembrance of the time when he was a member of the successful squadwhen he was one of the four who captured the sullen criminal on the tired and wornout horse. He could still hear the poor fel-low beg and plead for mercy which all four were about to grant, until one of them whispered "our oaths," and from that mo whispered "our oat hat moment the doom of the thief was sealed. He hoped that he would never be a party to such another hideous crime, but he knew that if he caught the thief he would do what his neighbors expected of him and what he expected of them. Dead men tell no tales, and neither does a vigilante, so he have we was as formed by the control of knew he was safe from all human law and

But all this is past and horse-thieves and vigilantes are almost unknown in Kansas. The Missouri Pacific and the Santa Fe rail-The Missouri Pacino and the Santa Fe rail-ways each cross the Indian Territory and it is no longer a den of criminals. The pio-neer farmer of Kansas speaks of the vigi-lantes with a far-away air as though dimly remembering something of them and their ways.

The scattering trees that have borne such horrid fruit are still there and may be known by their names and local tradition. "Dead Man's Tree," at the head of "Horse Thief Gulch," is a well-known place in the Territory on the Arkansas river. Years ago when going south from Wichita on a stage the horses would be changed at a sta-tion known as "Three on a Limb," but the railroads have done away with the stage just as civilization ended the necessity for

A Princess' Menagerie

A Princess' Menagerie.

Princess Maria Theresa, of Bavaria, combines an uncommon taste for traveling with a passion for domestic pets, and as she insists on taking quite a menagerie of them about with her, the two things do not go very well together. She is unmarried and is attended in all her wanderings by a maid of honor and a chamberlain. The care of the Princess' cherished animals devolves on the latter functionary, whose position is no sinecure, as he has no fewer than fourteen of them to look after, including several dogs, two magpies, an enormous rat and a diminutive bear.

The custom, prevaient among physicians as well as the laity, of tightly bandaging or tying up the eye as soon as it becomes infiamed or sore is a bad one. The effect upon the eye is bad. It precludes the free access and beneficial effects of the cool air and at the same time prevents or greatly retards the free egress of hot tears and morbid secretions of the inflamed conjunctiva or cornea, or both. In those cases, too, where a foreign substance has got into the eye the bandage (which is usually clapped on the first thing) presses the lids more closely against the ball and thus increases the pain and discomfort by augmenting the incerations caused by the foreign body. This can not fail to be harmful. In those cases where the light is painful it is my habit to adjust over the organ a neatly-fitting shade.

BAD PENMANSHIP.

A vice Which, When Practiced by Doctors, May Do Stuch Harm.

The Medical "egister (Philadelphia), under the heading of "One of the Lost Arts," takes the doctors to task for not writing their prescriptions more intelligibly. The writer claims that the druggist is liable to, and frequently does, make mistakes from misinterpreting the writing, and that the life of the patient is imperiled by their wretched chirography. The ordinary prescription is often as undecipherable as Egyptian hieroglyphics written upon papyrus of three thousand years ago, and what is worse, there does not seem to be any tendency toward improvement; the modern beency toward improvement; the modern be-lief being that bad penmanship is an evi-dence of genius. The result is that the patients do not get the medicines ordered by the physician, or that which the physi-cian supposes he orders. Some years ago the writer formed the

Some years ago the writer formed the acquaintance of a druggist who said that he did not pretend to follow the prescriptions sent him, because in many instances it would be unsafe for the patient to take the dose, and frequently the chirography was so miserable that it was impossible to make out just what the doctor wanted. He was consequently compelled to treat the patients himself, although to all appearances they were under the care of the regular they were under the care of the regular physician. This plan was adopted after due deliberation and trial, the druggist finding that when prescriptions were returned for correction that was generally the end of the business, the prescriptions being sent else-where. Let us call a halt upon this failing, where. Let us call a halt upon this fai ing, ns it is due largely to sheer negligence; and, when the writing becomes too burdensone by rea... of lack of time, it would be the part of wisdom to employ a competent clerk for the purpose. By this means it is hoped that we may be able to revive, if not rediscover, one of the lost arts. It will be better for the project. better for the patient, and, furthermore, will cause the druggist no sleepless nights, such as now threaten to drive him to dis-
